Thank you for having a look!

I am very excited to kick start my new career as a developer.
At the moment I am learning and implementing new skills, but I am looking for a professional work environment where I can develop my skills in the right direction.
I am confident that my varied past also brings many other (life)skills, which are very useful in the work environment.

Please have a look to see what I have been up to in the past and what I can bring to you in the future!

People skills

I am a very inquisitive and adaptive person, who loves to create and learn new things in life. I am very passionate about societies, nature and clean tech.

My education: - A levels
              - Hospitality Management

All tech related skills are self-taught, through various online media.

I am very open-minded and adaptive. My main prerequisites are that I can continue to learn and I can contribute in developing something that I love in a great environment.
